LUNGEvity Foundation Statement on NIH Research Funding

LUNGEvity Foundation shares the concerns of advocacy and research communities that actions causing delays or prevention of research funding from the NIH and other government institutions could have a devastating effect on vital research and collaboration within the scientific community.

LUNGEvity is unwavering in our commitment to funding high-quality lung cancer research, supporting patients and their families, and advocating for health equity, increased awareness, early detection, and improved treatments for lung cancer. We will continue to prioritize initiatives that drive meaningful progress for all people affected by or at risk of lung cancer, while continuously monitoring developments and amplifying the voices of our community. Our goal is to bring hope and progress to those touched by lung cancer and to champion their needs at every step.
